

UCSD Political Science Ph.D. Field Requirements

	American Politics	Comparative Politics	International Relations	Political Methodology	Political Theory
Core Course Requirements	251- American Political Institutions AND 271-Advanced Statistical Applications. AND 252-American Politics: Behavior OR 257-Voting and Elections	220B- Comp Politics: Institutions AND 220A- Comp Politics: State and Society	240- International Relations Theory	270- Mathematical and Statistical Foundations AND 271- Advanced Statistical Applications AND 273- Causal Inference	FOUR courses numbered 210-219
Additional Required Courses	Two seminars from the set {252-258, 260-265, 278, or 259} that were not used to meet the core course requirements in AP. To meet this requirement, POLI 259 must be approved by the field coordinator. AND One methods course numbered 272-279 or outside of the department. To meet this requirement, outside of department courses must be approved by the field coordinator. AND Students whose first field is AP must register for and attend POLI 281 for every quarter they are in residence and registered. Students seeking an exception to this must consult with and obtain approval from the AP field coordinator and the DGS.	Two additional seminars in comparative politics AND Students whose first field is CP must register for and attend POLI 282 for every quarter they are in residence and registered. Students seeking an exception to this must consult with and obtain approval from the CP field coordinator and the DGS	Three graduate seminars numbered: POLI 232, 236-248. GPS courses: With prior written approval of the IR Field Coordinator, students may take GPS courses that (1) have sufficient int'l content, and (2) incorporate additional requirements for PhD students AND Students whose first field is IR must register for and attend POLI 283 for every quarter they are in residence and registered. Students seeking an exception to this must consult with and obtain approval from the IR field coordinator and the DGS	Two graduate seminars from the POLI 206, POLI 263 or 270-279 range OR Methods workshops, such as: POLI 260 POLI 263 POLI 276 POLI 277 POLI 279 POLI 279 POLI 287 POLI 288 POLI 289 AND Students whose first field is MT must register for and attend POLI 286 for every quarter they are in residence and registered. Students seeking an exception to this must consult with and obtain approval from the MT field coordinator and the DGS	Students whose first field is PT must register for and attend POLI 285 for every quarter they are in residence and registered. Students seeking an exception to this must consult with and obtain approval from the PT field coordinator and the DGS